

AIA Central Valley
A Chapter of The American Institute of Architects

“Green Business” Presentation with the ReUse People of America (TRP)
2010 New Member Reception

The Sacramento Regional Conservation Corps (SRCC) has launched a new “Green Business” in Sacramento in partnership with The ReUse People of America (TRP), headquartered in Oakland, California. This new business, the SRCC Re-Use Store, is designed to be a training program for corps members in sales, marketing, customer relations, inventory management, warehousing and delivery—while providing a service to the community and reducing the impact of discarded building materials in our landfills. Both the SRCC and TRP are recognized non profit organizations. SRCC Executive Director Dwight Washabaugh and ReUse People of American Sacramento Area Manager Kristin Williams will present.

Prior to the presentation, enjoy refreshments and help us welcome our Chapter’s newest members as we introduce and welcome them to the Chapter.

About TRP

The ReUse People of America is a non-profit organization that promotes the deconstruction (careful dismantling) and reuse of a building that would normally be demolished. The vehicle that makes this economically feasible is the sizable tax deduction for the donation of the building materials salvaged. The materials are distributed for reuse through ours and partner warehouses throughout the country and abroad. Visit: www.TheReusePeople.com for more information.
