

new, integrated architectures, infrastructures, and urbanisms exploit beauty as an instrument of resilience and adaptation visionary proposals from multidisciplinary design teams

An Open Ideas Competition for Retrofitting the American West open to all architects, landscape architects, urban designers, planners, engineers, educators students and others interested in arid lands issues.

for more information visit drylandscompetition.org awards: multiple prizes | two categories: Professional & Student Teams | receive research grants organizers: The California Architectural Foundation | The Arid Lands Institute at Woodbury University | The AIACC Academy for Emerging Professionals water supply water quality water access poster design by Melina Markarian

ARIDLANDSINSTITUTE

